With 28 years of experience being commissioned for sculpture, CherryLion has developed a client friendly process that allows for the most creativity and protects against unwanted surprises for the client. Here is a bullet point list of the process. We can elaborate on this list once the basic parameters of the commission request are defined.

Process for Commissioning a Sculpture

- Meet with client at site and bring along resource materials
- Define goals and parameters of the commission
- Research and collect related materials
- Design concept(s)
- Sculpt a scale model (Marquette) and Photoshop into site
- Provide quote with itemized costs and timelines
- With approval, sculpt full scale original in clay
- Client approval of clay original throughout the process via studio visits and emailed photos
- Produce rubber mold from original clay
- Review samples of casting and finishing materials
- Cast artwork at CherryLion Studios or affiliated foundry
- Deliver and install
- Provide maintenance packet.
